The Funeral Ceremonies Yesterday.

The people of Milwaukee did honor yesterday to the memory of the late SOLOMON JUNEAU, the founder of their city. Here, where he was the only white man but little more than twenty years ago, thousands of people, representing all classes, professions, and avocations in a population of over forty thousand, turned out to testify their respect to his memory.

The flags of the shipping in port and of the public buildings were at half-mast during the day, and East Water St., from Mason to Huron St., and Spring St. for two blocks from the west end of the bridge, were draped in mourning, festoons of black and white hanging from the windows, and crossing the street in several instances.

The weather had moderated so far as to thaw the frozen streets, placing them in a very unpleasant condition for pedestrians in the procession. St. John's Cathedral, where the funeral services were to be performed, was open at 10½ A. M. for ladies only, and the space reserved for them was speedily filled, while vast numbers were unable to find admission. The bells of the Court Houses and several churches commenced tolling at 10½ A. M. at which time the was about forming. The various military and fire companies and civic associations assembled on Main St. from Oneida to Mason, and the sidewalks in the vicinity were crowded with a dense mass of people, numbering by thousands. The procession moved from the rendezvous to the residence of H. K. WHITE, Esq., the son-in-law of the deceased, where the body, enclosed in a metallic burial case, was received into the hearse, the pall-bearers took their places by its side, and the family and their friends entered the carriages provided. From thence the procession moved to the Cathedral in the following order:

Maj. Gen'l. GRANT and staff.
Military.
Milwaukee Light Guards, preceded by the North-Western Band, with appropriate music
Carroll Guards,
Milwaukee Rifles,
Green Yagers,
Black Yagers,
Artillery Co.,
Dragoons,
Firemen.
Battalion Band.
Chief Engineer and Ex-Chiefs of Engineers,
Hook and Ladder, No 1,
Milwaukee Engine Co., No 1,
Neptune " " No. 2,
Oregon " " No. 3,
Rough & Ready " " No. 4,
Ocean " " No. 5,
Fillmore " " No. 6,
THE HEARSE,
with 28 of our oldest citizens as Pall-bearers,
Carriages containing the family and friends,
Band.
Pius Benevolent Society
Common Council,
Members of the Bar.
Citizens.

The head of the procession having arrived at the Cathedral, a halt was made, and the military and fire companies opened right and left, allowing the Hearse and carriages to pass through the line, the members of the fire companies uncovering as they passed. The order of entering the Cathedral by those in the procession, was not strictly maintained after the coffin had been received within, and some degree of confusion ensued, but the vast building was soon crowded with people, and the services proceeded promptly.

After the religious services, an eloquent address was delivered by Rev. Mr. RIORDAN, one of the most graceful and fluent of pulpit orators in the country. His eulogy of the honest and noble character of the deceased commended itself to the hearts of many in that vast audience, who knew him well.

The procession was formed again in the same order as above, (a carriage containing the clergyman officiating, taking its place before the hearse,) and moved down Mason to East Water St., and up Spring St. to the Roman Catholic Cemetry near the west limits of the city. Forty-six carriages were in the procession as it passed our office, containing the Common Council, Pioneer's Society, Members of the Bar and others. The line was about 25 minutes passing our office, and the sidewalks on both sides of Spring St., and the windows and balconies of the buildings were crowded with people. As the procession passed up that street, there must have been more than ten thousand people looking on, who will long remember the solemn ceremonies of the day.

The services at the Cemetery being concluded, the procession was again formed, and marched back, the bands playing lively airs, to the place of rendezvous, where the different companies were dismissed.

Thus did our city pay her testimony of respect to the memory of its pioneer settler. We trust that measures may be soon taken for the erection of a tasteful monument over his remains.

NEW ILLINOIS BANKS.—The following new banks have been established and gone into operation in Illinois within the last month, under the general banking law:

Bank of the Republic, McLeansboro. C. C. Merriman, Prest; W. B. Merriam, Cash.
Mississippi River Bank, Oxford. C. C. Merriman, Prest.; W. H. Merriam, Cash.
American Exchange Bank. Raleigh. W. H. Parish, Prest; O. H. Miner, Cash.
Pike County Bank, Griggsville. Thomas L. Ludus, Prest.; R. McK. Ludlow, Cash.

REFUSES TO BE COUNTED IN.—The Common Council of Nashville, Tennessee, has refused, by a vote of 11 to 5, to send delegates to the new "South Commercial Convention," which they understand very well to be nothing more than a pow-wow of the Secessionists.

LOOK OUT.—The St. Catharines (C. W.) Journal says: "Ten dollars forged notes on the Commercial Bank, Canada, are abundant, and so well executed that not one out of a hundred persons would refuse them. We have seen some of them that have been taken by shrewd public men.

From Our New York Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.

This is a New York holiday, being the anniversary of the evacuation of the city by the British troops at the close of the war of Independence. People dont like to relinquish a holiday once consecrated, and in truth we have not, as a people, many holidays, and therefore perhaps, it is as well to continue this one—for such breaks in the wearing toils of daily life are benefits, morally and physically. But for this consideration, one might well desire that a commemoration which only perpetuates the fact that during the whole war, almost, our city was held by the enemy, and only abandoned by the effect of a treaty of peace, should be intermitted—since there is nothing in the event commemorated to flatter self-respect, or illustrate national valour. We have the usual display of martial militia and streets thronged with gazers. The press, however, I observe, is so great to push on works of masonry, etc., before frost, in the numberless buildings going up this fall, that work upon them is going on as usual.

Indeed, within the last few weeks, after a comparatively dull season, the greatest activity prevails among the mechanics. Very many new buildings have been contracted for and commenced, and all trades connected with such work are in full activity, and at the highest rates of wages.

Prosperity indeed abounds, and notwithstanding a heavy excess of foreign imports, and a continual flow of coin to Europe, the increase of wealth has been so great, the supply from the golden realm of California is so unfailing, and that supply—of which in the aggregate little account is taken because it comes in small bills—from European emigration, is so considerable, that the apprehension which, towards the close of the summer seemed not uncommon nor unfounded, of a partial collapse of credit, appears to have passed off, and all is sunshine, hope and promise. It is certainly a notable thing, upon which I believe I may have commented before in my letters, that even in this city, where pending the Presidential canvass, a certain degree of faith seemed, so far as the language and the votes of many of the rich bankers and merchants could indicate, to be awarded to the threats of disunion from the South, and fears were really entertained, or amazingly well feigned, of disastrous consequences from the probable success of the Republican party—that in reality all the ordinary affairs of business went on, operations embracing a long future and distant countries were entered into, and credit given and taken in the greatest confidence and latitude, all the time these croakings and threatenings were uttered and uttering.

The truth is that no impression unfavorable to the duration of our Union, does exist here, or say where else in the Free States, nor can any such impression be made, now least of all, since the Free States, with the dishonoring exception of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, have proved by their grand vote for Fremont, that they know their power, and that that power will uphold the Union for Freedom, and compel all, within and without, to abide by and support it. Practically, then, I repeat, there is not, and has not been, and while Freemen are true to Freedom, cannot be, any real distrust of the Union, or any such apprehensions of political disturbance, as even to ruffle the calm face of commerce.

Another week will see Congress in session. I hope every man loving freedom, and abhorring as a necessary consequence the oppression, wrong and crime of which Kansas has been the theatre, will be at his post at the opening of the Session, to resist the admission of Mr. Whitfield, chosen under the bogus laws of Kansas as a delegate. That will be the first question in order, and the first opportunity to ascertain how the swelling thunder tones of the Free States, at the late election, will affect men, who, professing democracy, should be eager to obey the will so clearly manifested in those tones.

Speculation is busy with the probable future policy of Mr. Buchanan, and I can scarcely conceive of a topic that lends itself more readily to speculation—for as I judge the man from his antecedents, and especially from his self-abnegation in laying down his own manhood, and taking up a platform instead, it is as uncertain how he will come out under the conflicting purposes that will be brought to bear on him from ultra disunionists of the South, from squeamish but loose principled conservatives at the North, as which of two drops of water, trickling down a pane of glass in a warm room after a frosty night, will reach the bottom first. Sporting men have been known to amuse themselves by betting on such a race, and it seems an equally fair subject of a bet, which will be the course of Mr. Buchanan as President, extreme South, or moderate conservative. As I am not a sporting man, I indicate only, without offering the bet.

Nothing has been heard of the missing boats or the fragments of the wreck of the steamer Lyonnais. I yet cling to the hope that the boats, or some of them, may have been picked up by outward bound vessels, and then we should only hear of them after many days.

Our canals are still in full activity, but this must soon cease at the bidding of winter.

A Plea for Freedom from a Slave State.

We copy below a remarkable article from the St. Louis Democrat, as indicating the sentiments of a large number of the intelligent people of Missouri, who have looked with no favor on the successive acts of border-ruffianism in Kansas. At present, we have no space for further comment except to say that the same reasoning which proves that Kansas ought rather to be a free than a slave State, also proves that Missouri itself might be benefited by becoming a free State:

What the Future of Kansas should be—Opinion of a Missourian.

[From the St. Louis Democrat, 26th inst.]

Considering Kansas in relation to Missouri, we cannot hesitate in declaring it is immeasurably better for us that she should enter the Union as a FREE STATE. Every negro in Kansas occupies the place of a white laboring man. There are about twenty-five thousand slaveholders in Missouri, to eight or nine hundred thousand non-slaveholders, and if the interests of the majority are to be preferred, no sane man can doubt of the propriety and justice of our position, or of the advantages which would accrue to Missouri from making Kansas a free State. It is not alone that the negro occupies the place of the white man, but that the tares choke and wither the wheat. White labor thrives but poorly in the presence of slave labor. The slaveholders would be benefitted to a certain degree by making Kansas a slave State, because it would increase the value of their slaves; but what are the interests of twenty-five thousand, compared with the interests of nearly a million? Kansas as a field for white labor for our native agriculturists and mechanics, for the hardy laborers from Germany and Ireland, and not a domain for any rich aristocracy, is what we prefer, and what every true democrat in the State, every friend of commerce and industry, should prefer. The interest of one class of our community should not be permitted, like Aaron's rod, to devour and swallow up every other interest. Let us judge of Kansas by California. If Slavery had been legalized there, the simple act of removing a slave from Virginia to California, would, according to Gov. Wise, have quadrupled his value, making him worth five thousand, instead of fourteen or fifteen hundred dollars. With such inducements the slaveholders would have precipitated themselves and their slaves upon the new country, and in the very first year, niggers would have swarmed in the mines like locusts. The young and courageous men of our own and other States would have to compete in that rich field of enterprise with a combination of labor and capital which would have excluded them or crushed them; and instead of young white men winning the lavish treasures of California, slave owners or rich speculators who would purchase slaves, would monopolize those treasures. The consequences which would have followed the legalization of slavery in California, will, in a lesser degree, follow its establishment in Kansas. The few will gain at the expense of the many, the rich at the expense of the poor, the slave owner at the expense of the working man.

Italian Affairs.

Correspondence of the London Times.

ITALY—Naples, Oct. 30.—After much menace and discussion the ministers of the allied powers have at length left Naples. At an early hour on Tuesday morning the commissary of the quarter of the Liviera di Chiaja made his appearance, with, perhaps, 50 of his men, and dotted them about in the neighborhood of the French legation. These, again, were supported by spies in all directions, and still more effectually by patrols of gensdarmes placed within sight of each other, and extending full two miles through the Toledo, and down the Foria. Altogether there could not have been a display of less than 2,000 men in the employ of the police. The government, therefore, made the demonstration, not the likewise, and it is a proof of the arbitrary system, which is practiced in Naples, that so great a force was deemed necessary to suppress all expressions of respect for the ministers of two great nations.

His Majesty came in last night from Gaeta, and from the tranquility of the capital no doubt will derive a proof of the contentment and happiness of his people. Any one who looks from the windows of the palace will see castles and forts flowning with cannon all pointed inwards; he will see the roofs of houses, monasteries, and churches constructed with slits for musketry.—The city is more like a besieged town than a free city. But another reason of tranquillity is the strong determination of the people to be quiet and wait.

The British and French consuls are charged with the signature of passports, and the archives of our legation are placed in the consulate.—Despatches have been received, which state that British subjects are now placed under the protection of her Majesty's naval forces.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—Baron Brenier had his first interview with the Minister for Foreign Affairs to-day, and he and Count Walewski have proceeded to Compiegne. Under all circumstances, it is not difficult to guess the sort of report which Baron Brenier will have to make about the King of Naples. Notwithstanding the hopes and expectations of some change coming over Ferdinand II., it is not believed at this moment that he has the slightest intention to listen to reason or humanity, or that he will not continue hardened, false, insane, or hypocritical to the last. It is destiny, and he must fulfil it.

He declared up to the last moment that he would concede nothing, and change nothing, in his system of government. The allies might bombard his capital, cut down his people, depose or even kill him—but yield he will not. He admits his weakness in the presence of the force that can be brought against him—he will endeavor to defend himself as best he may against his enemies—but change he will not, neither now or hereafter. Such are the latest declarations known to emanate from his Majesty; how he will abide by them time only can tell.

The Walker Explosion.

The truth is out at last. The quarrel between President Walker and his late confidential friend and brigadier, Goicouria, has let the cat out of the bag. In the Herald of this morning we find a continuation of the correspondence, and the publication of the following contract which explains itself. This precious document is dated January 11th, 1856:

CONTRACT.

General William Walker, Commander-in-Chief of the army of Nicaragua, is willing to form the following agreement with Captain F. A. Lane, appointed agent of St. Domingo de Goicuria, sole holder and depositor of the goods and chattels belonging to the cause of Cuba, consisting in money, a vessel and munitions of war:—

Firstly—Gen. William Walker pledges his word of honor that he will assist and co-operate with his person and with his various resources, such as men and means, in the cause of Cuba and in favor of her liberty, after having consolidated the peace and the government of the republic of Nicaragua.

Secondly—General William Walker proposes and admits the understanding that the material and pecuniary resources of Nicaragua, as well as those which are in possession of the revolutionary party of Cuba, shall be amalgamated together, making common cause together for the purpose of overthrowing the Spanish tyranny in the island and of insuring the prosperity of Central America, identifying thereby the interest of both countries.

Thirdly—Gen. Walker requires a full exposition, manifestation and explanation of the resources belonging to the cause of Cuba, as likewise a detailed statement of the military and marine forces, as well as the remaining resources of the Spanish government in the island of Cuba.

Fourthly—Capt. F. A. Lane, having taken into consideration the contents of the three foregoing articles, agrees to and accepts the contents of the said three articles, only as a preliminary of a contract to be made upon a more solid basis, by the parties interested; and therefore binds himself by his word of honor to keep this agreement until he shall have fuller power for its final arrangement. And, having drawn out two papers of the same tenor, in corroboration of this we affix our signatures, in the Independent State and Republic of Nicaragua, this day of January 11th, 1856.

Signed, F. A. LAINE. WM. WALKER.

On the 12th of August, 1855, Walker writes to Gen. Goicouria in this city, urging him to hasten over to England, and convince the British Cabinet that annexation to the United States is not what Walker is driving at. He closes with the following compliment to his Northern friends:—

I hope to hear from you every mail. Can you not make ——— write me a letter? Tell ——— he must send me the news, and let me know whether "Cuba must and shall be free;" but not for the Yankees. Oh, no! that fine country is not fit for those barbarous Yankees. What could such a psalm singing set do in the island?

Remember me to your family, and believe me, yours, sincerely, WM. WALKER.

GEN. D. DE GOICOUIA.

After this, Walker can hardly hope of receiving any more "aid and comfort" from this section of the country. His avowed object now is, to establish "a military republic" [what a misnomer!] as a sort of barrier against Northern encroachments upon the domain of Slavery.

"In regard to the "El Dorado" business, Gen. Goicouria confesses that he had Cuba in his eye. We think it fortunate for him and his followers that his plans have been frustrated. In the meantime there is a prospect of several private fights growing out of this affair, a challenge having passed between Gen. G. and Mr. Randolph, and the following sulphurous note appears in to-day's Herald:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22, '56.

The Indictment of the State Canvassers.

At the recent session of the Grand Jury of Dane County, A. T. Gray, Geo. B. Smith and E. H. Janssen, the late Canvassers, were indicted for the fraudulent canvass of the votes for Governor, made in December last.

The persons indicted have employed Hon. Samuel Crawford as their Counsel, who have submitted a motion, we understand, to quash the indictment on technical grounds.—Madison Journal.

The motion to quash was argued on Thursday afternoon, and Judge Cothren was to give his decision in the evening.

AN EGYPTIAN STEAMSHIP.—MESSRS. HOLDEN & GALLAGHER, of Boston, are building an iron steam yacht, for the Viceroy of Egypt, of 1000 tons register.

"LOOK OUT FOR THE ENGINE WHILE THE BELL RINGS."—The bell of one of the locomotives for the Kenosha & Rockford Road, will ring to-day about 11 o'clock, when the locomotive will be transferred from the Lake Shore Road, by means of the temporary switch, to the K. & R. road.—Other locomotives as well as construction cars will be transferred to our road as fast as wanted. The work on this road is progressing with reasonable speed.—Kenosha Telegraph.

FOUND DEAD.—A young man named Abram [illegible] was found dead in bed in his room at the Globe Hotel, on Third street, this city, on Friday morning, at the Globe Hotel in this city, at which place he had stopped the evening previous.—An inquest was held on the body by Justice Driggs and the jury, after a careful examination, assisted by Dr. Raymond, rendered the following verdict: "That the deceased came to his death by the visitation of God in a natural way, and not otherwise." He had in his possession three watches, $160,80 in money, a draft of $300 on an Eastern Banking House, and a large amount of clothing and other personal property in his trunks, which were delivered to his friends, who conveyed his remains to Omro, Winnebago Co, on Monday last. He had been laboring under an attack of consumption for the past two years, and when he left his friend at the East, they were fearful he would die before reaching Omro, his former residence.—Fond du Lac Union.

R. & M. R. R.—The work on the western end of the R. & M. Railroad is progressing rapidly, the estimates being over $70,000 per month for work done west of Rockton. The track is now laid, and the cars running eight miles west of Beloit.—Racine Journal.

A Promising Territory.

Gov. Gorman, in his message to the Minnesota, Legislature last winter, stated the population of the Territory at 70,000, as shown by the census taken in the summer previous. At the opening of navigation in the spring it was estimated at 120,000, and now, near the close of navigation, it is set down by a St. Paul paper at 200,000. There may be some exaggeration in this last statement, but we think not much.—Minnesota has been regarded as the land of promise for three or four years back throughout the Eastern States, and the tide of emigration setting towards it during the last spring and summer has been far greater than ever before, caused partly by a diversion of several thousand in that direction who would have gone to Kansas had it not been for the troubles there, but chiefly by the encouraging accounts of the resources of the Territory given by the settlers to their friends at a distance, and those of travellers through it communicated to the newspapers. Such accounts are always liable to the suspicion of being rather warmly colored, but we believe that, as a general thing, the natural advantages of Minnesota have not been overstated. The more widely it becomes known the higher stands its reputation in the public mind.

The settlement of two hundred thousand people during the short space of ten years in a territory more than fifteen hundred miles from the seaboard, which up to that period had only been roamed over by savages, is an extraordinary fact in the history of emigration even in this country, and it becomes all the more interesting when we consider the character of the population, which for energy, industry, and the sober household virtues will compare favorably with that of the best portions of the older States. As we should expect from such a people, all the best institutions of older communities keep pace with the general improvement of the country. Every village has its school-house and its church, and at St. Paul and other large towns, the foundations of public education are being laid on a broad and generous scale.

At the present rate of increase, Minnesota will have a population of at least half a million in 1860. In two years or less, Chicago will be in direct railroad communication with St. Paul, furnishing a grand highway of travel into the heart of the Territory, and by that time another railroad will in all probability have penetrated Southern Minnesota from Iowa, if not more than one. Meantime also a road will be carried forward from St. Paul to Lake Superior, throwing open a vast region to settlement and improvement. These works constructed, the progress of settlement will be wonderfully rapid, and we can hardly set any limits to the population of that Territory at the end of the next 20 years.—Chicago Press.

THE MINERAL POINT RAILROAD.—Daily trains are now running over this road between Darlington and Warren, while the track-layers have advanced some miles this side of Darlington, and are only delayed by the unfinished bridges. The contract time for the completion of the road is the 10th of January next, and we presume that by that time the road will be entirely completed and in full operation. Three locomotives, the John C. Fremont, the Warren, and the Mineral Point, are now on the road, with the necessary passenger, baggage, and freight cars. The depot building at Mineral Point, five in number, are now completed, and as specimens of the workmanship of our mechanics are creditable to the place.

But six weeks more, and a new era will have commenced in the history of Mineral Point, the benefits of which will extend more or less to each of the villages around it. We shall then be in direct communication with the best markets of the West, and shall save to the producer in the transportation of our surplus products at the rate of three to six cents ₱ bushel on grain, and at about $1 to $1,50 ₱ 1000 lbs on lead—in that proportion our village will become a better market for the country around, while, also, there will be a steady demand for all that may be brought here to market, however much it may be.—Mineral Pt. Democrat.

They were James Hammond, stealing a horse, arrested in this city by the police; John C. Wright, stealing a yoke of oxen, and John Wilber for burglary—breaking into Mr. Elmore's store in (the state of) Mukwonago.

MARINE.

PORT OF MILWAUKEE—Nov. 27, 1856.

☞ The Custom House was closed yesterday.

MARINE INTELLIGENCE.

CLOSING OF NAVIGATION.—The vessels in port are being rapidly put into winter quarters, and have poles point upwards all along the stream. No more sail vessels will in all probability, clear for below, though two or three propellers may try another trip. A good many lumber vessels are still out, but they are being stripped and laid up as fast as they return from their trips. There is, however, no ice in the river, and the weather is quite moderate.

WHAT DOS VESSEL BUILDERS ARE DOING.—The shipyards beg a again to present their usual appearance of activity, and everything betokens that the coming season will be full y as active a one as the last.

Peck & Masters are building two propellers for the New York Central Railroad, each 180 feet keel, 29 feet beam, 12 ft. hold, and 600 tons. One propeller for Kirkland & Ball, 200 t. keel 30 ft beam, 13 ft. hold, and 800 tons. One ocean tug, fore-and-aft rig, for W. T. Richmond, Buffalo, 1 5 ft. keel, 30 ft. beam, 11 ft. hold, and 400 tons.

Presley & Stevens, one schooner for Capt. A. Davis, of this city; and Wm. Rea, Chicago, 126 ft. keel, 28 ft. beam, 10 ft. hold, and 325 tons.

R. Calk ns, one schooner for R. Calkins and E. Hibbard, 115 ft. keel, 25 ft. beam, 9 ft. hold. She will be launched next Saturday. One schooner for V. Swain, of the same dimension as above, is contracted for and will be immediately commenced.

Jones & Bigsby are commencing a new schooner, of dimensions to pass the canal.

Lathrop & Stevenson are building a schooner of about 350 tons.

Luther Beach, a propeller, 120 ft. keel, 27 ft. beam, 10 ft. hold. At other has also been commenced.

Quayle & Martin, one barque for N. O. Winslow, 146 ft. keel, 30 ft. beam, 11½ ft. hold, and over 500 tons. One top-sail schooner for same, 120 ft. keel, 25 ft. beam, 9 ft. hold, and 330 tons. One four-and-after for E. N. Winslow, same dimensions, and one for parties in Chicago, likewise of the same dimensions.

Many contracts are under consideration by some of the above named, but have not yet assumed a form tangible enough for us to be warranted in reporting.—Cleveland Herald, 27th.

DETROIT RIVER DRY DOCK.—The Detroit River Dry Dock, situated about two miles below this city, has been in successful operation since the 1st of April. It is the largest dock in the city, and possesses peculiar advantages for repairing vessels and steamers of the largest size. Its dimensions are as follows: Length 388 feet, with 65 feet; depth 11½ feet. The proprietor, Mr. J. P. Clark, is enlarging the work by building another dock, 225 feet in length, for propellers and sail vessels. From 30 to 50 men are constantly employed. They have sufficient water for docking sized vessels, which must be a great saving and convenience to masters of vessels who are compelled to put up for repairs. Several vessels, loaded with wheat, corn and stone coal, have been in this dock during the past season, one of them having over 600 tons coal on board.

Among other vessels which have been repaired during the season are the steamers Salona, Sheboygan, Michigan, &c., and the propellers Globe, Iron City, and Vernon. The Western World is now undergoing repairs. The hull of the old propeller Oregon has been raised, and is about to be refitted with Buck, and several other vessels are awaiting repairs.—Detroit Tribune.

Why will not our enterprising friends, who own the present marine railway at this port, or some one else, build a dock here which shall be as efficient as the above, as there is no better point on the lakes for one, and as we shall soon have the best harbor, we ought to be provided with all other needful facilities for commerce, at the earliest day possible.

THREE MEN DROWNED.—Capt. Spoonmaker, of the Olive Branch, states that a small rail boat was seen to capsize, off Pigeon Creek, seven miles south of Grand Haven, during the violent gale of Friday evening last. Three persons were seen clinging to the boat for a short time, but it was impossible to render them any assistance. They were all evidently drowned. The boat floated ashore about a mile and a half south of Grand River, and is supposed to be the one belonging to Messrs. Squiers & Bailey, of Grand Haven, and that the men drowned were Daniel I. Squiers, son of John W. Squiers, proprietor of the West in Hotel, of Grand Haven, Mr. Barrick, and a Mr. Jewett. These men were engaged in the fishing business. They were known to be out Kalamazoo River a few days per Sentinel, and were expected to make the keys to Grand River the first fair wind.—Chicago Democrat.

☞ The schooner Rirk White, which was on a reef near Mackinac, has been pumped out and taken to Mackinac, and on Saturday last was discharging her cargo of wheat, which was entirely destroyed. The vessel was not very badly injured.—Detroit Advertiser.

In the treatment of which, the employment of Appropriate Constitutional and Mechanical Remedies, and Medicinal Inhalations,
Has given him a degree of success which can never attend a partial, imperfect treatment of these obstinate and dangerous diseases, and from his ample experience, Dr. FITCH feels himself fully justified in asserting that, when disease is so far advanced that the above means fail, no other course can afford relief.

NEWSPAPER ESTABLISHMENT FOR SALE.—A capital opportunity is offered to an enterprising Printer to purchase a prosperous establishment, by the advertisement of Mr E O ASCHLEY, of the Janesville Free Press in our columns to day Janesville is one of the largest and most thriving towns of our State, and rapidly growing The county is overwhelmingly Republican in its political feelings, and the Free Press well established as the exponent of the same principles The proprietor is obliged to retire from business on account of failing health.

CLEMENT'S LINE OF STEAMERS.—The steamers Arctic Traveller Cleveland and Huron of this line owned by Messrs Kellogg & Strong of this city and their associate proprietors, are laid up for the season This line, we believe, has no parallel in the country, for regularity of trips, and entire freedom from accident to the vessels or loss of life. They have had, as they deserve it, a highly successful season, having done a very large business from spring to the close They will be out bright and early in the spring ready to resume their place in the confidence of the public

STREET COMMISSIONERS' ORDERS.—Fifth Ward—South Water street, in front of lots 1 and 2, block 55, to be paved with square stone

Third Ward—Milwaukee street from Huron to to Chicago street to be graded, sidewalks planked, and gutters to be paved Also, the alley through block 10 and 17 to be graded

AN IMPROVEMENT.—We notice with pleasure, by a paragraph in the Wisconsin, that Mr Young the owner of the valuable lot on the north east corner of Wisconsin and Main streets, intends to erect next spring on that lot a four story building, the first story of cut stone and the upper stories of brick, in a handsome style of architecture

Trial of Engines.

It is expected that the trial of No 5 s new engine, built by Mr Howland of this city, invited by him, will come off at 2½ P M, to-day, at the foot of Mason street It will doubtless be an interesting affair and attract a great many people, if the day should be favorable

FLOWERS.—Our old friend PARKER, by means of an exquisite bouquet, reminds us that he is provided with a profusion of flowers at his Nursery on the Watertown Plank Road, and that he is ready to fill all orders which may be left for him, at the Post Office, or at Read's Grocery Store. He prepares his bouquets with great taste

QUICK WORK.—A letter was received in this city on the 27th of November, which bore the Liverpool England, post mark of November 12th This is just 12 days from Liverpool to Milwaukee Mr. Henry opposite the Walker House, was the recipient of the letter
